A POSSIBLE SCIENTIFIC PROOF OF THE EXISTENCE OF AN ETHERIC BODY

by Pietro Momanoni Monteleone d'Orvieto, Italy.

For the purpose of the argument it is premised that the following statements are, to all intents and purposes, correct:

1. Mediums have on many attested occasions stated that they have seen the etheric bodies (ghosts, phantoms, spectres, etc) of living beings, either at the moment of death, or in cases of ubiquity.

2. Over twenty years ago the well known healer and magnetiser of Lyons, M. August Bouvier, with the aid of infra-red rays, was able to photograph the etheric semblance of a limb which had been amputated some time before, details were given in the "Revue Spirite" for July 1933, in an article by Dr. Raoul Montandon of the Psychic Research Society of Geneva. (Presumably this gentleman must have been a relative of the late M. J. Montandon of Geneva, who was on the UMRA Council).

3. Some years ago Dr. R. A. Watters of Johns Hopking University of Baltimore, Maryland, was able to photograph in a Cloud Chamber (Wilsons), the etheric bodies of butterflies, grasshoppers, frogs, rats, etc, which had been killed there. An article on this was published in the Italian REVISTA PSICHICA for June 1937 quoting from material printed in TWO WORLDS.

4. As far as the writer is aware the Bouvier experiments have never been repeated with any degree of success by anybody, with the possible exception of the white gaseous emanation from the bodies of people at the moment of death, photographed by R. Raraduch and others.

5. It is obviously not possible to induce a human being to enter a Cloud Chamber for the purpose of being killed while in it.

The Following procedure is therefore suggested.

a. A living medium, while in trance, should project his etheric body into a Cloud Chamber of the Wilson or other satisfactory type.

b. While this occurs the experimenter should be able to see and photograph the etheric body without difficulty through the glass wall of the Cloud Chamber.

c. If by any chance it is possible to find a medium who has had a limb amputated since birth, the etheric body should not show this deficiency.

d. Such an experiment would give convincing proof of the existence of an etheric body, at least on the physical plane.

e. It would seem possible that the projection of the etheric body into the Cloud Chamber could be accomplished without any harm to the medium.

(This seems to be just the stuff for the Parapsychology Foundation in New York).

EXCERPTS FROM THE SEANCES

(From Transcription of the 1st Lecture Presented by KETHRA E'DA FOUNDATION, Given Through the Deep-Trance Mediumship of Mark Probert, at 931 - 26th St. San Diego, California. September 4, '57. Yada Di Shi Ite, 1st Control)

. . . . My friends, to have a human consciousness is a great honor. Man is not born a human being. He is an animal, less capable than the four legged ones. He must learn to be a human, and this entails, thinking, intelligence, capability to judge in a rational way/ His little club could kill only a few at one time. You have a big club now, called atomic bomb. One killed retail, the other wholesale.

There is a big fear among the peoples of earth ... the dread of radiation poisoning. We have said in the past, not to long ago, that if something is not done for your world to stop the use of atomic experimenting, your world has a year to go before the atmosphere reaches a point of no return - of saturation. (But) all governments of the world must stop at once, otherwise it will do no good.

Yet as we speak of radiation of this kind, the sun is throwing upon your earth 250 billion tons of energy per minute. Yes, 250 billion tons of energy is being projected upon your earth from the sun per minute. So why should you worry about a little added - eh? A little added can be too much. It is what is sometimes tritely called the straw that breaks the camel's back. In past ages, races of people discovered the detrimental radiations in the cosmic radiations heating the earth. They went underground. They disappeared from the surface of the earth. I think if you will go back through the history of man you will discover that this is so. But in going underground to escape, they encountered similar conditions, for in the under crust there is great radiation because the undercrust is breaking down, the chemicals are breaking down. You have what is called atomic decay. For many generations these people lived under the earth. They turned various colors, green, sometimes red, sometimes what you call a livid color, due to chemical radiation. What I am trying to point out is, there is no escape from radiation, on earth or anywhere else in your entire solar system, starry system, glaxy, for man is born from radiation; were it not for solar radiation there could have been no life on your earth; therefore, physically speaking, you are a radiating being yourself - a radiant being. This means you are born of light.

(We of the Circle call ourselves the Teachers of Light, meaning teachers of the Sun; therefore we worship the sun, the sun that gives us all life.) Chemical substances on the earth could not do anything towards producing a cellular form or being, even of the lowest kind, one-celled, without the aid of the sun, radiation from ultra-violet to infra-red, lower and higher, on both ends of the band. Think of this, my friends, if you are afraid of radiation. This physical form as you see yourselves today is but one of the forms that you have taken through the vast eons of time, in your experimental work to stay on the earth. You seeded yourself here through chemical composition and through chemical radiation. You are responsible for whatever happens to you. Fear will not release you from this responsibility. These radiations from the atomic bomb, produce what is called genetic changes in all cellular bodies. How else is life possible but by various disturbances taking place in the cells of living bodies? But the fearful question is, will these genetic changes produce monstrous beings? In my years on earth I often found myself looking into my copper reflector, we did not have the silver and glass reflectors such as you have, and asking myself "what kind of a monster am I in the eyes of others?" What so I mean by monster - well, in a civilization, a social system, whatever you call it, a Tribal group, if one is born with three eyes instead of two he is suspected of being a monster, or if he has three legs instead of two. And who said man always had two legs?? At one time we used to use the hands along with the legs for running with. The apes do it now, and while there are no real missing links with part man and part ape like bodies, I know a great many human apes. By that I mean their main characteristic is that of aping other people, they are not themselves, they have no creative mind at all. If the leader of a group say "Boo", they say "Boo". To not be an ape man is to think for yourself, to reason for yourself. It is said of me that I am a spook. I am suspected of being so. So far no one has been able to determine the truth about it. I say I am not a spook. I am a consciousness, a living consciousness, the same as you. I think for myself, therefore I do not care what other people think when they try to think for me. And that is what you should do! No one else can live your life. Why be concerned about atomic-fall-out or anything else of a negative nature - if you can do something towards righting a wrong, do it, but do not worry or fret about it.

Modern man has reached a high state of mechanical knowledge, yet he knows almost nothing about the mechanics of his own body, and less about his mind. There is much talk among you about going to the stars, flying out into the vast solar system. True, you will, for this is the age, the atomic age, the age of gigantic power. Yet are you ready to go out into the vast spaces seeking knowledge of other bodies? Wha is to be found in going out into the spaces but more space. You will find, my frien that there are other beings like yourselves in the many, many, many planetary system - in your milky way alone - in your galaxy alone there are millions of them, and on the vaster majority of them live beings very much like yourselves. Is man prepared to meet them, to share the universe with them? Will it be profitable to the minds of earth men? Will it be a joyful meeting, or will humankind here on earth move out into the spaces with their ignorance of atomic power and use it to destroy, to conquer other beings.

Let us speak about the moral and ethical feelings of the space beings or beings from other planets. Are they ready? Do they know any more about life than man here on earth? Are they any less vicious? that, I think is something to concern yourself with in this age. Will man bring his diseases of body and mind to these other beings, and what kind of diseases do they have to giveto you. For you know, my friends, the ones you have now, your scientists know almost nothing on how to cure them. Your scientists know how to make destructive weapons of the most powerful kind, but they have not the remotest idea of what to do for many of your more deadly diseases. The atomic age is no better and no worse, than any other age man has entered into. What you call space people, coming to your earth, coming into your atmosphere, have caused great confusion, not only to the general mind but to some of your most intelligent, academically speaking, I mean. Many of your great psychologists, physicists, and many others in the higher fields of learning have made fools of themselves in the things they have said concerning these space people. That which the leaders cannot explain they attempt to explain away. If it does not fit in with their pattern, the one they have given to you, they do not exist - just do not pay any attention to them and they will go away. But do you know, my friends, once we taste of truth we shall hunger for it forever thereafter.

These beings that you have come to call saucer are not planetary beings they are space beings - inner space dwellers. You may think of them if you wish as fourth dimensional beings. They do not move through your spaces from one body to another in the manner which you have been taught about space motion - flight aeronautics. Do some of you know the word teleportation? Now if you understand this word you will know almost instantly what is taking place. For those who do not know the word teleportation I am going to describe what I mean. This seems as though I doubt your inteligence to know what I am saying, but I am not, but there are some do not grasp the picture so I will try to explain. The trouble with explaining, my friends, is you need another explanation to explain the explanation, eh? Here you have in your world toddy, you call television, in which you project energy, you project the energy of a form, you understand what I mean-by electronics. You are using energy, is it not so? Now this is the transference of energy. Now there is a way of transferring matter, instead of lines of force, there will be projection of matter itself, the whole form. An individual will be set in a casing and the body itself will be taken to a distant place, do what it is to do and be projected back if they want to go back. The transference of matter - for what is matter - energy. You do not know yet how to reverse this transference, mostly because you believe, now your scientific minds do not believe this, but the lay individual believes that the body is some kind of peculiar thing called solid and that nothing can be done with it to move it in any other way but in the way it is naturally, or so-called naturally, moved in. Does this entail a breakdown of the matter body, this transference of matter, of matter through matter? No. It is not a breakdown. It is a change in vibratory motion of the atomic structure, the atomic particles, if you want to call them particles, but atoms are not particles, that is another story. How it is moving through matter - matter through matter - by change in frequency of the atomic blocks. That is it. Now I want to stop a minute there because I feel some minds groping that want to say something, that want to ask perhaps for me to clarify what I say.

YADA: That is what I am saying. Yes, Sir. If moving at different rates they can take up the same space because they will never be where the other is at the same time. Therefore this gives matter a chance to move through matter. There is nothing to stop it. The motion may be so timed into an infinite of split seconds, yet I do not care how split these seconds are they will not touch, they will still not get in one another's way. It is just right for them to pass. When, too, we realize that an atom is not in any way solid, not even what you call the core, or the nucleus. It is as unstable as a sunbeam, and that is what your body is made of, that is why your body could be transported to any poiht in space. Many people of the earth, my friends, and I think if you care to put your time to look you will discover this to be true, have been removed off your earth, have been transported through vast spaces to other planetary bodies not in your solar system. You will not be able to discover whether they went to other bodies in space, but you will find they have disappeared, and many people think, or try to think, instantaneiously in some cases, that these people walked into what is called an atomic vortex. You have heard that? They have not . Forces have been used upon them to change the rate of frequency of their atomi body, moving them into a different frequency, thereby moving them into another point in space which may be many light years from your earth.

INCREASE OF LEUKEMIA LAID TO RADIATION, X-RAYS: (From "The Reminder", July,Aug.'57)

Pasadena, Cal. (INS) - May 18 - A California Institute of Technology biologist reported Friday that leukemia - cancer of the blood - is on the increase in the United States.

He blamed it on the medical use of X-rays and on increased background radiation from nuclear explosions.

The scientist, Dr. E. B. Lewis, said that all radiation, no matter how small, is likely to produce an increase in the so far incurable disease.

His report was contained in Friday's issue of Science Magazine, official publication of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

HIGH RATIO CITED

This report is designed to establish for the first time the precise relationship between radiation injury and leukemia rates.

The biologist cited 10,500 leukemia deaths in the United States in 1954 and he estimated that 10 to 20 per cent were caused by normal background radiation, that 10 to 20 per cent or more resulted from medical X-rays, and 50 per cent from spontaneous causes.

Dr. Lewis' formula for estimating leukemia possibilities is based on studies of four groups: The survivors of the Hiroshima and Nagasaki bombings, British patients treated with radiation for a spine ailment called spondylitis, children treated with radiation for enlarged thymus glands and radiologists.

The Japanese who were close to the center of the bombings develop the blood ailment at 56 times the normal rate.

RADIATION INCREASES LEUKEMIA, SAYS DR. E. B. LEWIS: (From 'The Reminder' July-Aug.) 1957

Leukemia - cancer of the blood -, is increasing in the United States because of an increase in the use of X-rays. Another factor called "Background radiations" adds to radiation in the medical use of X-rays, as X-ray treatments, chest X-rays to detect TB of the lungs, and the use of X-rays to detect gall stones, kidney stones, stomach ulcers, etc.

Still another factor is noted in the above report - that is, radiation by atomic bombs used in 1945 on Japan. Japanese near the bomb explosions developed leukemia - cancer of the blood - at 56 times the normal rate. What will Atomic War do to the human race? Can the human race survive in The New Atomic Age? Men of science, and competent, say NO. Even Atomic War will make the human race extinct, we are told; and -, that is the truth.

Returning to the high rate of leukemia in the Japanese: this race of people is more vulnerable to radiation than is the white race; and that because of color - white reflects radiation that color absorbs. There is proof of this fact, as noted in the picture: atomic radiation burned into the skin the pattern of the black-and-white robe by the Japanese lady near the bomb blast in 1945 at Hiroshima. Black cloth in the robe was charred by the absorbtion of atomic radiation, the skin was also burned, and the unprotected skin too. But, white cloth in the robe reflected radiation, neither was the white cloth burned by the atomic radiation, nor was the skin burned that had the protection of white cloth.)

EXCERPTS FROM "THROUGH THE GATES OF DEATH"

by Dion Fortune, Aquarian Press, London, 1957

In order to understand the significance of these inter-incarnation phases, we must enter somewhat deeply into the philosophy of the subject. As we have already noted, heaven, and equally hell, are states of consciousness, not places. But if we realise the actual facts of the matter, we shall find that earth is also a state of consciousness. Modern physics is showing conclusively that matter is simply a form of force which, owing to the fact that it is in equilibrium, appears to us to be static. There is no such thing as dense matter as popularly understood. When you "bark your shins" over the coal-scuttle, you are really falling over electrical resistances. 'Incarnation is the state of consciousness which perceives these forms of force. Discarnation, or death, is the state of consciousness which no longer perceives them but has become subjective and is only aware of the content of its own consciousness.' In death the gates of the senses are closed. Otherwise the man is unchanged. In fact we might say that viewed from the standpoint of the soul death is simply the colsing of the gates of the senses. If a man's consciousness is entirely limited to the five physical senses, though such men are rare, he is as much shut in with his own thoughts and as inaccessible as the sleeper lying oblivious upon a bed.

But does this sleep of death yield nothing but pleasant dreams and rest? No, it does much more than this. Anyone who is familiar with the practice of mental work and meditation knows how powerful is the concentrated brooding of the mind upon some spiritual ideal. The highlands of heaven are the mounts of meditation. The soul, withdrawn from sense-impressions, is building thought-froms and giving itself auto-suggestion. These processes play an important part in formulating the vehicles of embodiment when the time comes for it to reincarnate.

.....The return to dust of the body, however, is but half the process of physical death, for there is another body, equally physical, equally mortal, which is called the etheric double. It might aptly be called the body of electricity, for it is an organised system of electro-magnetic stresses, and in its meshes every cell and fibre of the physical body lies like a bottle in a bottle rack. 'It transmits to every molecule of the body the vital force which keeps disintegration at bay maintains the unstable compounds of organic matter in their elaborate and fugitive forms.'

It is the withdrawal of this etheric double which marks the critical moment of death when the breath is seen to pass. Embodied in it the soul remains in an unconscious condition for a brief period, from a few hours to three days; if its tenancy of the etheric body is prolonged beyond this time, or if the soul wakes up to consciousness while still in the etheric double, one of the pathologies of death has occurred.

It is this waking of the soul while still in its etheric double which, in popular phrase, causes its ghost to walk. Within the appointed time, however, unless something abnormal occurs, the magnetic forces of this body of electricity will have been exhausted; it will be like a battery that has run down, and the soul will slip out of its meshes and no longer have any link with matter.

It is not this, however, that we call the Second Death: it is rather the second half of the physical death, and while it is going on the soul is asleep in the deepest unconsciousness.

WHY THE SPUTNIK STAYS UP

The sputnik encircles the earth due to a momentum inparted to it when it reached its highest altitude. 'It is the momentum of the sputnik that keeps it traveling along the line imparted to it by the final explosion of the rocket.' The force of gravity prevents it from rushing away into space at around 18,000 miles per hour, like a shooting star.

Gravity holds the sputnik in a circular path around the earth; but why doesn't gravity bring it back to earth in accordance with Newton's Second Law of Motion, which states:- '"If a body is acted upon by several forces, it will obey each as though the others did not exist, and that is whether the body is at rest or in motion"?'

Obviously, if there were only the two forces - the horizontal push of the original explosive propulsion and the downward push of gravity - the sputnik would fall to the earth, like a bullet fired from a rifle.

The reason it does not fall is that there is a third force in action. 'That force is the static electrical repulsion of conducting bodies when charged with "Like" electricity.' Two bodies charged with the same kind of electricity appear to repel each other; and the force of repulsion varies with the charge and inversely as the square of the distance between them.

When the sputnik was at the surface of the earth, before its take-off, it was charged with the same kind of electricity as that of the earth's surface. Now it is separated from the earth and is far enough away to lessen the force of gravity, which is caused by dynamic electrical repulsion by photons, quanta and cosmic rays from celestial space.

Some of the forces of dynamic electrical repulsion are now striking its underbelly, or side toward the earth; thus tending to counteract the downward push from radiant energy on its top side, which is away from the earth. The earth intercepts most of the radiant energy rays from celestial space which would otherwise have impinged on the underbelly.

Sputnik is being operated by three forces:-

1 - Original Momentum (a straight line push)

2 - Down Push of Gravity

3 - Up push of static electricity

Sir Isaac Newton ridiculed what we now call "The Attraction of Gravity". He wrote that no competent thinker could fall into the error of believing materials themselves possess innate powers of attraction for other materials. He was referring to common earth materials and not to tose few materials which acquire magnetic properties from the flow of adjacent currents.

When sufficient experimental data from sputniks have been gathered, we will be able to place and speed them so that they can circle the earth indefinitely, disappear into space or return to the earth; for we now have a better understanding of gravitational forces - The Drag Of Gravity.

TEN DOLLARS CAN STOP A BILLION!

Dear POAU Friend:

The "Gathering Storm" has broken. In the Oct. 25, 1957 issue of U. S. News & World Report, Father Virgil C. Blum of Marquette University, prominent Jesuit spokesman for the Roman Catholic Church, called for full government subsidy to his church for its educational program at the elementary and high school level. If the subsidy is denied, says Fr. Blum, then the religious freedom of the Roman Catholics is being suppressed.

Fr. Blum's subsidy plan had previously been endorsed by Cardinal McIntyre. It provides for "certificates of maoney value" cashable for tuition and other costs in parochial schools.

The Roman Catholic hierarchy is shooting boldly for more than $1 billion annual aubsidy--paid, of course, by you and other tax payers. This is no longer a matter of bus, books or "marginal benefits"; this is it! This is full government subsidy for parochial schools. If this program prevails, it means that the Roman Church will have a billion a year in tax funds before it collects a nikel from its own members.

The only organization in America that dares to fight the Roman Catholic subsidy demand openly and forthrightly is POAU. We have fought it for ten years until the churches are awakening to their peril. We will continue to fight it. We will fight it in the courts; we will fight it in every state of the union; we will fight it in Congress; we will fight it in the press; we will fight it everywhere. We will fight to win.

The big job is educational-- to break through the curtain of Catholic censorship and let the public know what is going on. Our immediate jobs:

1. Challenge the second attempt at illegal parochial school bus transportation in Augusta, Maine and defeat it as we did the first.
2. Challenge the Oregon text book subsidy in the courts.
3. Restore "captive schools and hospitals" to the public in several states.
4. Oppose the bus subsidy in local communities of Connecticut and challenge the law itself in the courts.
5. Defeat the Fordham subsidy at Lincoln Square, New York City.
6. Oppose via every medium of communication the "certificate subsidy" now actively sponsored by the Roman Church.

Give us the tools: we will keep at it as we have for the past ten years and will do more of the same. Who knows? Perhaps your $10.00-- or more or less--sent to POAU today can stop a billion!

Yours for the separation of Church & State

EXCERPTS FROM "TRANSMUTATION, A SPIRITUAL BLUE PRINT"

by Hayes Beasley, copyrighted in 1943.

When the addict (to any habit) can honestly say: I want to quit this habit, he is setting up cross currents of a new desire that will, eventually cause static in the molecular structure of his nervous system. These cross currents are natures method of creating changed conditions on all planes of his being. As the new affirmation: I will quit, begins in his Spiritual center, it is per se, stronger than the craving of the nerves because it is constructive and is working on a higher level. Desire to quit is a positive spiritual command while desire to continue the habit is a negative physical demand of the nerves. Suppression causes destructive processes to be set up in the body which must have an outlet, eventually reverting to the practice of a counter habit or some form of compensation. Transmutation is accomplished without inward striving or tearing down or out processes, while suppression is a battle between contending forces within.....(page 40)

.....The light globe has no choice but to give light when the button on the wall is turned to make contact of positive and negative poles. When conscious mind gives an order to subconscious and steps aside and forgets the order, or, instead of "holding the thought" consciously, turns it loose; lets go; relaxes the tension as well as the attention, it immediately goes to work. If the individual should be in perfect harmony with infinite spirit and divine mind, the order would be filled instantaneously. Jesus said: when you pray, pray knowing that your prayer has already been answered. The etheric substance of all things one could possibly desire is in existence in the etheric realm. Like sour cream, they curdle into form as matter, according to the pattern of our desire. When the paddles of the churn revolve in the milk the butter fat is precipitated. Our minds are the churn; our desires the paddles; their action creates the vibration that precipitates the butter. Most people, those of little faith, are drawing down oleo. The superconscious mind existent in the etheric plane, is the cosmic milk holding in suspension the cosmic butter we are constantly demanding. Our desire shapes our mental demands, either consciously or unconsciously. Accept no substitutes. (page 49)

We are so doubtful, fearful, faithless, the process is sometimes defeated or delayed until the conscious mind has forgotten its order and ceases to interfere. It may be days, weeks, months and possibly years before the law works and the order is filled. If we remember the order we are dumbfounded by instead of convinced of a marvelous revelation. If we have forgotten or are hurt by the fullfillment of an unconscious suggestion, we wonder why "this should happen to me"... . . . (page 50)

.....The present world conditions could possibly be the begining of the end of a passing civilization and the birth of a new one. Man, through ignorance of natural law, destroys himself and his creations periodically. He will leave fragments of the achievements of his world during the decaying cycle. They will consist of two general kinds; the fossil beds of bones and material landmarks and the fossil beds of thought concealed in mythological lore. The succeeding cycle will read these records in the same manner as we now read the fossil beds of the past eras: the akashic record by intuition and clairvoyance; physical records and fossil bones by archaeologists and paleontologists. And history repeats in the usual manner.

'When, Oh when, will the world wake up to the facts given in OAHSPE. Look up VORTEXYA in OAHSPE. Gravity, magnetism, electricity, heat, light, and the Vital Fluid of Anton Mesmer are all frequencies or phases of vortexya, Old Descartes was correct in his views of vortexian power.'

The C. Q. C. Editor is in receipt of the following memorandum:

"The Director of the Economics Department of the McGraw-Hill Publishing Co., in an official monthly report to Company executives, dated December 4, said: 'no man will get into space in 1958. There will be a lot of talk about shooting a rocket to the moon but it won't be done. However, the existence of flying saucers, meaning vehicles from outer space, will be definitely established.' And a McGraw-Hill colleague who a couple of years ago brazenly and successfully claimed he had won a bet that there are no flying saucers will apologetically return the pennies he collected'.

The writer of the foregoing memo., himself associated with the publishing company named, then adds: "Also I plan (very shortly I hope) to send you a complete report on development in Baltimore -- conquering of the force of gravity, utilization of gravity to power generators and space craft. Expect space craft within a year as a result of development".

Since many of our BSR Associates are interested in comments of the Mark Probert Controls -- I recall that they have said, men would be able to construct craft capable of 'reaching the moon' in the near future - that it was one thing to construct these, something else to transport men and equipment and provide safe return -- but "true" space craft capable of 'crossing' interstellar spaces would encounter difficulties as yet not reckoned with.' The mind-and-body of man is habituated to conditions of earth life. Men will not be able to reproduce the 'space flights' of the UFO, for the reason that these huge craft do NOT cross space at all, but emerge at any desired destination by converting their frequency rates. The bodies of their operators and the nature of their blood-stream are such that emergence and conversion can be safely undergone; but the human entity cannot survive these changes. And even for shorter flights a long and rigorous preliminary training and conditioning is likely to be necessary. And the psychological effects have hardly been considered, yet they will be serious. . .

(Let me repeat here, that UFO's are physical and material - when their vibratory rates affect our senses. They may be called non-physical, non-material and etheric when such rates are beyond our sense perception. "MAT" and "DEMAT" are the two sides of the phenomenon, and one is neither more or less mysterious, "occult" and "mystical" than the other. This concept is good science and sound metaphysics and is at long last begining to register on the minds of various investigators. -ml)

Competent fiction writers are probably nearly correct in describing some of the psycho-physical effects of (imagined) space flight, See, e.g., C.S.Lewis in Out of the Silent Planet, Avon Books, T-127, pg. 34ff., paper, .35

AND IN ADDITION to the foregoing - Assoc. E.S.S. suggests that certain radiations, alone or in combination, might trigger off a world-wide epidemic of pregnancies in females "without benefit of males, clergy, and other usual accessories before the fact. This would explode as big a kettle of fish on this planet as any since life crawled out of the sea. Might have to crawl back into the sea to be safe from irresponsible atom-busters. . .
